

NEW-YORK DAILY TRIBUNE, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1898.

IN THE CYCLING WORLD.

BICYCLE DAY WILL BE NEXT TUESDAY.

THE PLAN FOR THE READJUSTMENT OF TRAFFIC ON THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE APPROVED—TO ESTABLISH METROPOLITAN CHAMBERSHIPS—NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Next Tuesday will be Bicycle Day, and the riders of the wheel in all parts of the district are looking forward with considerable interest to their tour among the stores. More than one enthusiastic cyclist who thinks that he is weather-wise has predicted clear and cool weather for the day. Probably the wish is father to the thought. But all cyclists hope that they will be able to make the rounds on their wheels. The enterprising dealers in this city and Brooklyn are getting ready to receive their visitors, and their receptions and entertainments promise to be enjoyable and interesting. Many of the clubs of the two boroughs are prepared to make the rounds in force, and it is predicted that more orders for wheels will be taken that day than has been the case in any previous two days since the return of cycling to the country. Officials of the South Brooklyn and the Harlem Wheelmen who were seen yesterday said that their members were much interested, and some expected to go out on that date. The interest in this city is just as keen in Brooklyn as it is in this city. The plan to utilize Washington's Birthday as a holiday was adopted everywhere, and will be tried in other cities as well as in New York. With fine weather next Tuesday, Bicycle Day ought to prove such a success that nothing more will be heard of national shows.
